Turkey: Thou Shalt Not . . .

(Istanbul, Gunes, in Turkish, Jan. 14. Report by Selman Erdogdu) "The party prohibitions" and "the closure of the parties" sections of the political parties law, which is being drafted by the Constitutional Commission of the Consultative Assembly, are now known.

[The political parties] shall not set up organizations outside the fatherland and embark on [political] activities.

They shall not under any circumstances accept aid from foreign states, from international organizations, or from any associations and institutions in foreign countries.

They shall not maintain that there are minorities in Turkey.

They shall not use any language other than Turkish at any kind of meetings or in any kind of propaganda, orally or in writing, or through images.

They shall not exploit religion or anything that is considered sacred by the religion.

They shall not demand the establishment of the caliphate.

No religious ceremony of any kind shall be organized nor will they participate in such ceremonies as a party.

They shall not adopt training and instruction activities pertaining to the military and civil defense preparations as a basis [for their party].

They shall not pursue any aspirations which run counter to Ataturk's principles and reforms.

They shall not indulge in activities which denigrate Ataturk's personality and activities or defame his memory.

They shall not form such side organizations as women's branches or youth involving privileges nor shall they set up vakifs [religious trusts].

They shall not have any political connection or cooperate with any professional organizations such as associations, syndicates, vakifs, cooperative societies or public institutions or with upper establishments for the purpose of enhancing their activities and policies. They shall not obtain any assistance from them nor shall they render any assistance to them.

The decisions and actions taken at any level by the party administration will be such as not to violate the party regulations and the principle of equality among the party members nor shall such decisions lead to oligarchy in the party.

They shall not introduce uniforms for their members and personnel nor shall they use armlets or other special signs which could be displayed in public. They shall not assign to their members or personnel the attributes and the duties of the security forces.

The founders and all the administrators of the parties, which will be closed down permanently in the new era, shall not become the founders, the administrators or the controllers of the new political party.

The new political parties to be formed shall not use the names, emblems, initials, rosettes or other signs of the banned parties.

The new parties shall not state or claim to be the continuation of the banned parties.

No political party shall be formed under the names of communist, anarchist, fascist, theocratic, national, socialist or under names which convey similar meanings.

Tunisia: Window on Iran

(Tunis, TAP, in English, Jan. 19) The TASS agency office in Teheran has been closed following the Iranian authorities' decision not to renew the visa of the Soviet correspondent, reported Wednesday a sure source in the Iranian capital.

This decision of the Ministry of the Islamic Orientation was taken following the broadcast by this agency of an article from Teheran questioning thus the Iranian authorities for the incidents which occurred December 27 in front of Teheran's Soviet Embassy. Afghan refugees had tried to penetrate into the embassy and had destroyed a Soviet flag which they had seized.

"This anti-Soviet action took place with the Iranian authorities' evident complaisance," had notably written the TASS agency.

El Salvador: Whose Human Rights?

(San Salvador, El Diario De Hoy, in Spanish, Jan. 25. Commmentary by Carlos Giron) On Friday, President Ronald Reagan once again certified that El Salvador has made progress in respecting "human rights" so that the U.S. Congress and Senate will not cut off the administration's economic and military aid to El Salvador.

That is the reason for the recent honorable visit of a sizeable number of figures from the other side of the Rio Grande who have come to personally verify if there are adequate grounds for certification.

The supposed attitude and interest of U.S. Senators, Congressmen and representatives of civic and religious groups in monitoring the respect of human rights would be highly praiseworthy were this really their objective.

We Salvadorans have had sufficient opportunity to confirm that things are different. In general, the figures who visit us are not impartial individuals who will tell the truth upon returning to their country. Most of them sympathize with the extreme left and support its efforts to reach political power even through violence.

In truth, when these gentlemen like Christopher Dodd, Charles Percy, George Willers, Claiborne Pell, Stephen Solarz, Paul Tsongas, Clarence Long, etcetera, come to investigate the respect for human rights, don't you believe they are referring to the human rights of all the Salvadoran people. They are solely and exclusively referring to the "rights" they grant those who for the past 3 years have imposed a cruel and dehumanizing war on the 4.5 million Salvadorans who want peace, justice, freedom and work.

It can be said that many of them are a sort of envoy and lawyer of the FMLN-FDR [Revolutionary Democratic Front]. That is why when they return to their country they say terrible things about what the government and army do to "the opposition forces." They never call them subversives and, even less, terrorists. They never talk about the monstrous destructive work of their proteges either because they are not interested or they don't want to know.

It is illogical for those representatives to try to put the Salvadoran Government and Army up against the wall over the issue of human rights, purposely ignoring that we are waging a war, that we are fighting against an open attack about which the entire world knows since the guerrillas in El Salvador would not have the firepower capacity they have were they not being supplied by Cuba via Nicaragua.

Brazil: Solo on Ice

(São Paulo, O Estado de São Paulo, in Portuguese, Jan. 26. Commentary by Fernando Barros and Assis Moreira) Although the Brazilian and Argentine Air Forces have been carrying out joint training exercises in the Antarctic since last year, this was disclosed only recently by an officer of the Brazilian Air Force (FAB). The agreement signed by the two countries provides for the training of Brazilian pilots to land on ice, while Argentine officers stationed in the Amazonian region are learning how to land on short dirt runways.

In the Antarctic, with its natural runways, it is much more important to be able to stop the aircraft by reversing the engines than by using the brakes, since in the latter case the aircraft will skid on the ice. It requires much experience in a pilot to land in the Antarctic; therefore, the Argentine authorities demand at least 1,000 flight hours in a C130 aircraft before starting this type of training.

Capt. Morvan Muller, a member of the Brazilian group working with the Argentine Air Force, is one of the few Brazilian pilots who meets all the requirements for this type of training.

North Korea: Team Spirit

(Pyongyang, KCNA, in English, Feb. 12) ...The command of the Peoples's Army of the Syrian Arab Republic, as a comrade-in-arms standing on the same trench against the U.S. imperialists and Zionists, strongly denounces the moves to form the triangular military alliance and the "Team Spirit 83" joint military exercises by the U.S. imperialists bent on the preparations for a new war on the Korean Peninsula, and unconditionally supports the order of the supreme commander of the Korean People's Army to enter into a semi-war state in face of their frantic war manoeuvres.

The U.S. imperialists must no longer obstruct the accomplishment of the cause of Korea's reunification aspired after so ardently by the entire Korean people, the Syrian Arab people and other peace-loving people of the world, but stop at once the schemings to bring into shape the U.S.-Japan-South Korea triangular military alliance and the "Team Spirit 83" joint military exercises and return to their den with their aggression armed forces and lethal weapons. If they start a reckless war of aggression against the fraternal Korean people, the officers and men of the People's Army of the Syrian Arab Republic will rush to the Korean front and help the fraternal Korean comrades-in-arms with blood.... —H.S.
