

Disarmament: The Challenge of the Nineteen Sixties

James P. Warburg. Doubleday. 288 pp. $4.50

Disarmament and not arms control, the author believes, offers the only hope for a lasting peace, but only if it is accompanied by parallel efforts to abate East-West tensions and to improve the living conditions of the world's disadvantaged peoples.

Arms Control, Disarmament, and National Security

Donald G. Brennan, Ed. Braziller. 475 pp. $6.

Twenty-three authorities on various aspects of the arms race contribute their views to this volume, which is based on the widely-noted "Arms Control" issue (Fall, 1960) of "Daedalus," the journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

The Sominsovereign People

E. E. Schattschneider. Holt-Rinehart-Winston. 147 pp. $2.95.

The author explores the dynamics of government in a society where "government of the people" has come to mean "a competitive political system in which competing leaders and organizations define the alternatives of public policy in such a way that the public can participate in the decision-making process."

World Cultures and World Religions: The Coming Dialogue

Hendrik Kraemer. Westminster Press. 386 pp. $6.50.

The author of this valuable philosophical study cautions against interpreting the relations that have grown in the last 150 years between the West (here identified with Christianity) and the religions and cultures of the East as anything more than indecisive preliminaries to the authentic process of communication, which, when it does take place, will pose unique problems for both spheres.

The Religious Factor

Gerhard Lonski. Doubleday. 381 pp. $5.95.

A noted sociologist amasses the findings of a research project carried out among Catholics, Jews, and Protestants (both white and Negro) of the Detroit area, in order to define the consequences of religious belief and practice in the everyday life of society.

A Forward Strategy for America

Robert Strausz-Hupé, William R. Kintner and Stefan T. Possony. Harper. 451 pp. $5.95.

This book, written by members of the Foreign Policy Research Institute, suggests military, economic, diplomatic and psychological methods whereby an all-inclusive strategy can be mounted against the Communist tactic of "protracted conflict."

worldview

A JOURNAL OF RELIGION AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS
 volume 4, nos. 6-8 / Summer 1961

WORLDVIEW is published monthly by The Church Peace Union.
 Subscription: $2.00 per year.

Address: 170 East 64th Street, New York 21, New York.

EDITORIAL BOARD

William Clancy, Editor
A. William Loos John R. Inman William J. Cook

Editorial Assistant, Arlene Croce

Worldview
 170 East 64th Street
 New York 21, N. Y.

U. S. POSTAGE PAID
 New York, N. Y.
 Permit No. 609
 Non-Profit Org.

CONTENTS

Editorial Comment..... 1
 In the Magazines..... 2
 The Churches and the World Crisis..... 3
 Gustave Weigel, S.J.
 Other Voices..... 8
 Correspondence 11
 Current Reading 12

Opinions expressed in WORLDVIEW represent the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Church Peace Union.